AERIAL TORPEDO IS A GERMAN WEAPON

two torpedoes there is sufficient explosive force to destroy the Tower of London.

"Originally these air torpedoes were destined to be carried exclusively by Zeppelins, but owing to certain improvements it has now been found they can be manipulated from warships. According to my information Germany proposes to use torpedoes of the air against the British fleet, and for that purpose small, swift craft, armed only with aerial torpedoes, are building or have already been built. So far this flying death has not been employed against the allies, but I learn it is to be tried probably over London this summer.

Automatic Feed for Big Guns.

"Some months ago I hinted that the Germans were working on an improved Zeppelin weapon, and this aerial torpedo is the result of many experiments in the works at Essen. Undoubtedly this is the secret invention of which we have heard so many whispers that the Germans have held in reserve for the British fleet. Against moving ships, however, it will not prove so formidable a weapon as against a fixed target.

"Of the German automatic guns I can say yet write little. The idea is to increase the rapidity of the fire of big guns by an automatic feeding of shells. In other words, the Germans are seeking to construct a big gun that can pour out shells as a Maxim pours out bullets. As the Maxim has almost superseded the rifle, so say the Germans, the automatic gun will dominate the Maxim, for in this war of applied mechanics there is no limit to invention and no check to destruction."
